Periodically, the USPS will change its Web Tool Kit User's Guide series and post the new versions here. Depending on the nature of the changes, however, it is not always necessary for current users to change their code. The information presented describes the latest versions of the documentation and provides recommendations as to whether current users should make changes. All users should download updated documentation for reference purposes.

The information presented on this page will be kept current upon any future releases. Users should check here periodically.
